PATRIOTISM
Chicago, Aug. 10, 1945.
Ill. Feb. 12. Regarding Sen.

Stephen M. Young's statement that he wished Francis G. Powers had 10 per cent of Nathan Hale's patriotism. I should like to say that some people in this country wish a majority of the people in government had 10 per cent of the patriotism of Nathan Hale.

Patriotism fails to prevail in many monetary decisions made by those governing the United States. Until they exercise this degree of patriotism, they should refrain from condemning on hearsay a man who has undoubtedly done more for the United States than a large number of his critics.
